

Family Science & Reading Program

The Summerfield-Petersburg Library will be hosting a Family Science and Reading Program. The University of Michigan Museum of Natural History is facilitating the program entitled "Polar Science Adventures." The program consists of hands on experiments targeted for families with children aged 6-11. The program will be held on the last Monday of each month from January through March at 6:30. Registration is required.

Home Schooling Program – The Classical Tutor

Beginning in January of 2008 this special group of classes will be held each Wednesday at the Summerfield-Petersburg Library. Classes are limited in size so register early. There is a small supply fee for each class.

Painted Furniture Auction

The Friends of the Library had their first Painted Furniture Auction this year during Community Days.

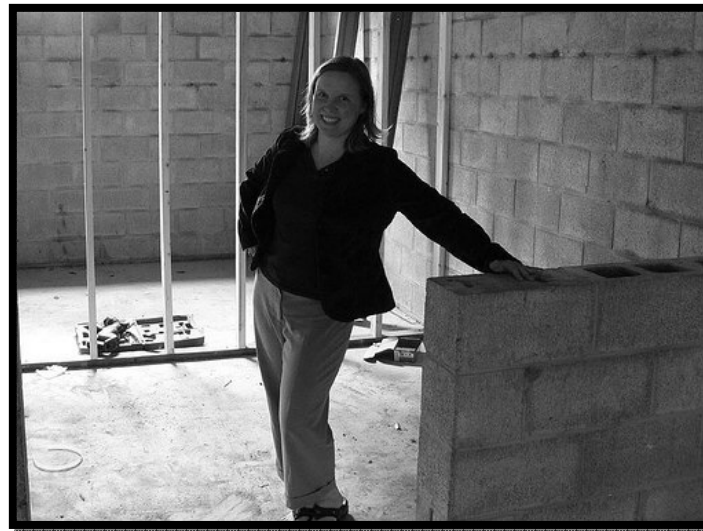

The fund raising event was a huge success and greatly enjoyed by the many patrons that attended.

A library in a town is like an evergreen tree of knowledge! It blossoms through the year!

Library Building Expansion Project

Mommy, I want to see!

The pictures shown on these two pages show the progress of the demolition and re-building on the adjacent building for the library expansion. The project is just a little behind but they are making good progress. Completion is expected to be early to mid-December.

An "official" Open House is scheduled for sometime in January, keep your eye out as this will be a fun event for everyone.
